INTERCOAST TRADE BOOM PASSES PEAK

Several Ships From Pacific on Way East With Less Than Full Cargoes.

Telegraphic advices reaching here yesterday from the Pacific coast said that for the first time in many weeks several ships had sailed for Atlantic ports with less than full cargoes. This bore out predictions that the peak of the boom in intercoastel traffic had been

Approximately 1,000,000 deadweight tons of American shipping is being opcrated in the intercoastal trade, and the fluctuations of cargo movement are of paramount importance to the shipping industry. This is a wholly new development, the result of the opening of the Panama Canal, and only during the last few, months has anything approaching the full possibilities of the trade been

The usual year end lassitude fell heavily upon the freight market early in the week, and by yesterday substantial declines in both berth and charter rates had been registered. The weakening in rates for vessels available for immediate loading had lent strength to the bearish attitude of shippers toward the question of January tonnage. Steamers continue to offer in moderate numbers for January and February loading and in some cases are prepared to accept lower rates than those currently prevailing, but no business for the future positions has been done.

Berth rates to the United Kingdom quoted by regular liners are down approximately to I shilling 3 pence a quarter, a decline in less than two weeks of a shilling. The Continental berth rate is 14 cents a hundred pounds, and the full cargo rate has dropped to the same level. One steamer was closed for late December loading at 14 cents, and at the inquent there are no further orders for that business.

To Italy shippers are quoting 18 cents, and owners have held out for that business.

To Italy shippers are quoting 18 cents, and owners have held out for 19% cents without success. Further grain orders are expected to come into the market shortly for Greece for January and possibly later shipment. On this the offers are from 22 to 23 cents, as compared with the rate of 24 cents on the tenture last concluded. the business last concluded.

compared with the rate of 24 cents on the business last concluded.

One fixture has been made for sugar from Cuba to a United Kingdom port for February loading, and it is hoped that further charters will materialize in the near future. The rate was 20 shillings 6 pence a ton, as was indiated by the previous quotations. Nothing is offered for voyages to the United States, and the paucity of sugar cargoes is shown by the recent sailing of several stemmers from Cuba in ballast.

There is some inquiry for West Indies and Italy coal voyages, but no orders have developed. The lumber trade is quiet. The demand for ships on West Indies time charter continues brisk, but owners are trying to chalk up their prices, and fixtures are not made readily for that reason.

the full possibilities of the trade been realized.

The amount of carge movement from month to month has grown tremendously, first as a result of the rate war, attracting freight from inland points that formerly moved by rail across the continent, and later as a result of the active state of business on the Pacific Coast, and stimulated at all times by the car shortage of the trans-Aiantic railroads. As trafic increased more shifts went into service, bringing the total operated in the trade from about 600,000 deadweight tons to its present figures, which will be increased to 1, 200,000 unless the slump in cargoes disarranges the announced plans of the operators.

A tabulation yesterday of the companies and ships in intercoastal service showed the following results

The American Hawaiian Steamship Company leads with thirty-two ships, of which, however, a few are operated only from Atlantic to Pacific ports, soing thence to Europe in a triangual service. The Lackenbach Steamship Company comes next with twenty-two steamers. The Isthmian Line has thirty ships, which are shifted about from trade to trade, not more than half being in intercoastal service at a time. These three so far have been the leading factors.

Other lines, with their present strength, are: Pacific Mail, 8; Crowell & Thurlow, 8; Dollar, 6; Nawsco, 6; Williams, 6; Moore & McCormack, 6; Munson, 4; Gariand, 4; Argonaut, 4, and Mittnacht, 2.

ship was damaged; in fact, as a special cable to the White Star office here indicated, the incident might be called merely a "brush." The Berengaria sailed on schedule from Southampton yesterday.

Only a mere squadron of Italian liners appears on the chart. The cutting down of Italian immigration to the United States and the fact that South America is yearning for immigrants have diverted the Italian flood in that direction. Nearly all the big Italian ships have entered or are entering the South American trade. The withdrawal of these ships from the American service and the beginning of winter have reduced the showing on the map materially, only forty-two ships appearing, half bound for North American ports and half for Europe.
